How Information is Collected

IP Address

Every computer connected to the internet is given a domain name and a set of numbers that serve as that computer's "internet Protocol", or IP, address. When a user requests a web page from the Website, our web servers automatically recognize that user's unique IP address. We may use this information to examine our traffic in the aggregate, but do not collect and evaluate this information for individuals. Our web servers do not automatically record e-mail addresses of users.

From time to time, we and/or our affiliates or advertisers may send a "cookie" to your computer. A cookie is a small piece of data that is sent to your internet browser from a web server and stored on your computer's hard drive. A cookie, by itself, cannot read data from your hard disk or read cookie files created by other websites. A cookie, by itself, does not damage your system. We may use cookies to identify and keep track of those areas of the Website that you have visited in the past in order to enhance your next visit to the Website. Our advertisers may also use cookies to ascertain how many times that you have seen an advertisement. We and our advertisers may use this information to better personalize the content, banners and promotions that you see on the Website. You can choose whether or not to accept cookies by changing the settings of your internet browser. If you choose not to accept cookies, your experience on the Website may be diminished and some features may not be available or may not work as intended.

The Website may use Adobe Flash Player. Local shared objects, also known as "flash cookies", may be used on the Website from time to time. Flash cookies may therefore be stored on your computer when you use the Website. For information on how to delete or disable flash cookies, see <http://kb2.adobe.com/cps/526/52697ee8.html> for details.

However, please note that, if you choose to restrict the use of flash cookies, your experience on the Website may be diminished and some features may not be available or may not work as intended.
